

- Companies are investing large sums of money to 'create' content by harvesting the web, offering 'free' services, e.g. e-mail, storage, office tools
 - Public sector cannot compete with large companies
 - financial means (needless to say)
 - different interpretation of the legal (not to mention ethical) frame
 - BUT: The public sector have something they don't...
-

THE CLARIN INFRASTRUCTURES

- CLARIN has the technical infrastructure and knowledge infrastructure for providing access to language data
- CLARIN's collaboration with Europeana
- Workshop: CLARIN and Libraries (9-10 May 2022, the Hague)

LIBRARIES

- Libraries host tons (literally) of valuable, high-quality, multilingual content
 - Their mission: keep it for the next generations... but is this all?
 - How to deliver this treasure to a modern-day consumer?
-

THE PROMISE (AND THE CHALLENGE)

IDS

LEIBNIZ-INSTITUT FÜR
DEUTSCHE SPRACHE

- Let's bring together high-quality content from our libraries and technology provided by public infrastructures

